More and more of us are looking for a natural alternative to help boost our overall heart health. Now a new, breakthrough supplement called Sytrinol – made from orange and palm fruit extracts – could be nature's healthy solution for those seeking optimal cardiovascular health.

In an exciting new development, studies on the effects of natural extracts from orange and palm fruits to establish their effects on heart health, have shown remarkable results due to the advanced combination of flavonoids and complex tocotrienols. The fruit extracts tested had been combined within an all-natural patented new ingredient called Sytrinol.

Sytrinol provides natural citrus flavonoids and tocotrienols which are among nature's most powerful antioxidants and are important for the protection of LDL cholesterol against free radical damage and could represent a breakthrough for those seeking natural products to help maintain a healthy heart.

With Sytrinol, Mother Nature has provided an exciting new way to support your heart health – completely naturally.
